Forecast For Wales
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 06 Jan 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mostly dry, bright and cold, with occasional wintry showers.

Today:
Dry for most though the day, with sunny spells in the west and cloud in the east, though this will start to break up later. The northwest and southeast may catch a few showers. Light winds and feeling cold. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Tonight:
Staying mostly dry through the night, though there could still be a few wintry showers in the northwest. The cloud will continue to clear overnight, causing very low temperatures. Minimum temperature -6 deg C (21 deg F).

Thursday:
Dry and bright for most on Thursday, though wintry showers may affect northern and western coastal areas. Cloud will move into the north during the evening. Widespread frost again overnight. Maximum temperature 6 deg C (43 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Outbreaks of rain, sleet and snow on Friday. Drier on Saturday, with sunny spells. Staying cold both days, with overnight frosts. Cloudy and milder on Sunday, with some patchy rain.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.